I have been to a weekend seminar with David Deida. His work is about a whole lot more than just genital coupling. It's about what makes us men and women, and how we come together on many different and profound levels. His take on gender roles, what comprises both the masculine and the feminine essence in each of us regardless of whatever gender you happen to be, is revolutionary and simply liberating. His work is controversial for this reason, not because he discusses s-e-x. I mean, there's no lack of frank sex talk out there. But what Deida believes about gender roles may come as a surprise. For Deida, discussion of technique is always set in the larger context of what coming together means for the enlightenment of souls. Likewise, his discussion of stage 1, stage 2, and stage 3 relationships creates a whole new framework for viewing the value and purpose of relationships, wherein we serve love itself, even more than we serve a lover. His challenging, provocative work elevated my consciousness. I will never forget that seminar. With these CD's, the listener can experience a large part of what Deida presented that weekend and the core of his teaching. His work is challenging, but it is not difficult to assimilate. He gives step by step, very easy to follow instructions for exercises to make lovemaking the literal embodiment of his principles. The exercises can be done with a partner or by yourself. Even if you have no interest in performing the exercises, Deida's vision of sexuality is breathtaking to contemplate. He gave me an entirely different approach to even the most casual day-to-day interactions with strangers, as well as an alternative sense of my own body, how I carry myself, how I sit, how I breath.
